One Defense

Dr. Vannevar Bush, former head of the Research and Development Board, checked his notes after appearing before a closed-door meeting with the Senate Armed Services Committee. He told newsmen the only defense against hydrogen or uranium bombs is to knock out the enemy's production centers and bomb carriers. (NEA Telephoto)

Corsi Says Help Can Avoid State Paternal Attitude

Industrial Commissioner
Addresses 135 Members,
Guests at Insurance
Banquet

Government can help individuals insure themselves against insecurities of old age, unemployment and disability without becoming a paternalistic "welfare" state, Edward A. Corsi, state industrial commissioner, said in this city Thursday night.

Corsi addressed about 135 members and guests attending the annual banquet of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

"Private enterprise should meet whatever needs it can, but wherever it cannot, then the government should step in—that is not a welfare state," Commissioner Corsi declared.

As an example of proper functioning of government in fulfilling its social obligations, he cited New York state's program of labor legislation.

The program, which he said cannot be attributed to any one political party or to any one governor, dates back to the administration of Charles Evans Hughes with the passage of workmen's laws.

Two Accidents Are Reported to Police

Mishaps Occur During Night; No One
In Hurt

Freezing weather after yesterday's snow, and rain left the city with dangerously slippery streets over night and this morning but only two minor accidents were reported.

The car of Edmund Gilligan, of Bearsville, novelist and sports columnist, was involved in a mishap reported at 1:10 a. m. at Washington avenue and North Front street.

Officers Kenneth Stratton and Clarence Stickles reported that the Gilligan car and one driven by Gus Cunaveles, 128 Emerson street, were in collision at the intersection.

Cunaveles, headed south on Washington avenue was turning left into North Front street and Gilligan, going west on North Front street was turning right into Washington avenue, the report said. Both cars were damaged.

Denham Says Area of Disagreement Might Be Cut, and Settlement Might Follow; Others Differ

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—A court decision cast doubt today on the legality of four of John L. Lewis' contract demands, and a top official expressed hope this might speed an agreement ending the soft coal strike.

N.L.R.B. General Counsel Robert N. Denham said the ruling by Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach might narrow the area of disagreement between the United Mine Workers president and the nation's coal operators—thus finally clearing the way to settlement of their long dispute.

Some sources suggested, however, that by stiffening the miners' resistance it might have just the opposite effect.

It was at Denham's request that Judge Keach agreed late yesterday to issue an injunction against union contract demands which mine owners complained were illegal.

All four of the contract terms involved were contained in the coal agreements which expired last June 30—settling off the dispute which culminated this week in the walkout of 370,000 U.M.W. members.

A three-man presidential board is due to report to the White House possibly tomorrow, on the facts of the dispute, thus clearing the way for President Truman to seek an emergency Taft-Hartley Act injunction, aimed at sending the miners back to work for at least 80 days. Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he doesn't have, and doesn't want, power to seize the coal mines.

The pits have been shut down tight since Monday. Before that some were closed and others worked only three days a week, squeezing the nation's coal stores from more than 75 days' supply to a year ago to little more than two weeks' stock above ground today.

White House action was expected because the soft coal shortage was becoming more critical daily. Thousands of workers in plants and railroads dependent on the mines were being laid off in increasing waves.

Judge Keach's injunction would direct Lewis to respond to a two-week-old bargaining invitation of the Southern Coal Producers Association—but without demanding: (1) A union shop, which the judge said the U.M.W. was not eligible to have under the Taft-Hartley Act; (2) a welfare fund exclusively for U.M.W. members; (3) a clause saying that miners would work only when "willing and able"; and (4) a provision for "memorial periods."

The last two provisions have been used in the past as reasons for mine walkouts.

The injunction, which the judge ordered stayed up for his signature by NLRB attorneys, will last until NLRB finally rules on whether the (Continued on Page 16, Col. 2)

Rossellini Says
He, Miss Bergman
Await Documents

Rome, Feb. 10 (AP)—Jubilant Roberto Rossellini said today he and film actress Ingrid Bergman would marry "just as quickly as her divorce papers arrive from Mexico."

The Swedish actress, who bore a son "Roberto" here eight days ago, was granted a divorce in Juarez, Mexico, late yesterday from Dr. Peter Lindstrom of Hollywood.

Rossellini said Miss Bergman was "overjoyed" at the news of the granting of her divorce in Juarez.

"Oh," he added, smiling wryly, "if only this had happened ten months ago."

Lindstrom ignored the Mexican court proceedings and remained in Hollywood.

Rossellini's attorney Gino Solita said yesterday he had notified Miss Bergman's divorce would not be sufficient to permit her to marry the Italian film director here. The lawyer said a copy of the decree would have to be received in Rome before the ceremony would take place.

Mental Cruelty

The divorce was granted on grounds of mental cruelty, non-support and incompatibility.

The Bergman-Rossellini romance blossomed on the volcanic island of Stromboli, site and name of a motion picture in which he directed last year. The birth of her son has raised a storm of protest over the showing of "Stromboli" in the United States.

The belding, 43-year-old Rossellini today disclosed an extension had been obtained of the 10-day period for civil registration of the birth of Miss Bergman's baby.

"We will have a few extra days for the registration," he told a reporter who talked with him as he left the hospital bedside of the actress and her son this morning to motor to the location for his latest picture now being filmed near Rome.

Rossellini said a small private civil marriage ceremony would be arranged, probably in Rome. He denied a report from Juarez that the wedding would take place tomorrow.

"There isn't time for the papers to get here," he added, indicating the marriage would take place some time next week.

He said he and Miss Bergman planned a Roman Catholic Church ceremony to later. He declined, however, to comment on current reports that the Swedish actress, a Lutheran, would become a Catholic.

He likewise did not comment on any plans he may have for obtaining a church annulment of his previous marriage. A Turin court already has approved a court annulment of the marriage obtained in Vienna.

Lindstrom maintained the "no comment" attitude he has kept throughout the love affair.

Fuchs Says Data Given To Russians

Prosecution Tells Court
He Knowingly Gave Secrets to Reds Since
1942

Had Full Access

Scientist Might Have Handed Over Reports
on H-Bomb

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Klaus Fuchs, brilliant German-born British atom scientist, confessed that since 1942 he knowingly and continuously passed on to Soviet Russia vital British-American atomic secrets, the prosecution told a British court today.

Conceivably this could have included information not only on the atom bomb but also the hydrogen bomb.

The Bow street court ordered 38-year-old Fuchs held for formal trial in old Bailey Criminal Court at the session beginning Feb. 28 on two charges of violating the Official Secrets Act. He faces a maximum of 14 years in prison if convicted.

Fuchs, a reportedly self-admitted "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" among the master minds of the atom, accepted £100 (then $400) in 1948 "as a symbolic payment signifying his subservience to the cause of world communism," a crown witness told the court.

The witness said Fuchs, a wartime refugee from the Nazis, merely blinked his eyes behind his thick spectacles as the prosecutor, Christmas Humphrey, labeled him a "political fanatic on the payroll of a foreign power."

The prosecution produced a statement it said was signed by Fuchs, describing himself as a "schizophrenic" (split personality) who had divided his mind into two compartments. One permitted him to carry on agreeable contacts with those around him at the Harwell atom plant. The other established him as a person completely independent of the forces of society.

Was Leading Researcher

Fuchs was the leading atomic researcher during the war at Harwell, Britain's atomic establishment, and was head of the theoretical physics branch, the heart of atomic sciences. In the United States there were indications that he had access to the most vital of the hydrogen bomb. Moreover, it was said in Washington such secrets as he may have passed on could have sped Russia's achievement of an atomic explosion.

During the war Fuchs visited the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic energy plant and the laboratory at Los Alamos, N. Mex., where the world's first atom bomb was produced.

At the hearing before Magistrate Laurence Dunne, Security Officer William James Skardon testified Fuchs had signed a statement when he was questioned at the Harwell plant on his arrest last week.

In the statement, Fuchs was said to have asserted that when he learned the kind of work he was to do in Britain "I decided to inform the Russians, and I established contact through another member of the Communist party."

Continuous Contact

"Since that time I have had continuous contact with persons completely unknown to me except that they would give information to the Russians," the statement said.

"At this time I had complete confidence in the Russian policy and I had no hesitation in giving all the information I had."

"I believed deliberately the western allies allowed Germany and Russia to fight each other to the death. I tried to concentrate on giving the results of my own work."

"I used my Marxist philosophy to conceal my thoughts, which had to be separated into two compartments. One side was the man I wanted to be. I could be free and easy and happy with other people without fear of disclosing myself because I knew the other compartment would step in if I reached a danger point."

"Looking back now, the best way is to call it controlled schizophrenia."

In the postwar period I had doubts about Russian policy. Eventually I came to the point where I knew I disapproved of many of the actions of Russian policy. I still believed that Russia would build a new world and that I would take part in it.

"During this time I was not sure I could give all the information I had. However, it became more and more evident that Russia would spread her influence over Europe. I had to decide whether I could continue to hand over information without being sure I was doing right. I decided I could not do so."

"I did not come to one rendezvous (with Russian agents) because I was ill at the time and I decided not to go to the following one."

Student Dies in West Camp Crash

This is the aftermath of an automobile crash near West Camp Thursday about 6:30 p. m. that claimed the life of James Manganello, 22, of Morrisville. The demolished car struck a girder on the north end of a bridge near West Camp shearing off the right side of the vehicle. Manganello, riding in the right side of the rear seat, was thrown out of the car onto the highway. Three other youths, all returning from college in Madison county, escaped with minor injuries. Congress Shows Backing For Atom Control Statement

Commanding Officer
Pins Keating's Badge

Manhasset, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—Not every Boy Scout has his Eagle Badge pinned on him by his commanding officer, but Cadet Midshipman John D. Keating of 49 Hinsdale street, Kingston, N. Y., did.

Now a first year man at U. S. Merchant Marine Academy at nearby Great Neck, Keating had his Eagle Badge, symbolic of scouting's highest rank, pinned on him last night at a public court of honor by Capt. H. V. Nerney, second in command at the academy.

Keating is considered one of the academy's outstanding football players. A back, he made the varsity his first year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Keating.

Truman Makes Clear He Is Backing Plan
Set Forth by Baruch

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—President Truman found some slight backing in Congress today for his statement that a little cooperation from Russia is all that's needed to set up effective world atomic controls.

Mr. Truman made clear to his news conference yesterday that he isn't budging from the Baruch plan for control through international atomic inspection.

The Baruch plan has been before the United Nations for many months. It is named for Bernard M. Baruch, one of its principal architects. Russia has refused to accept its provision for inspection of atomic projects.

The President endorsed Secretary of State Acheson's stand that Russia keeps agreements only when forced to by existing conditions.

Mr. Truman said he sees no reason to set up a commission to survey the Baruch plan in the light of his go-ahead order on the H-bomb.

The President also made it plain he intends to disregard a proposal by Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) that this country spend $50,000,000,000 on a five year economic aid plan.

As outlined by the senator, such aid would be open to Russia if she agreed to effective atomic controls and shifted two-thirds of her arms expenditure into peaceful channels.

By indirectness, the President also rejected a plea by Senator Tydings (D.-Md.) for a call for a world disarmament conference. McMahon and Tydings had no immediate comment on the President's views. Both indicated, however, they will have more to say about the question in the next few days.

Among other lawmakers, there was support of the President's contention that this country has the program might be inflationary.

The group asked the Federal Reserve Board to express its views on the matter at a public hearing next Thursday.

The trouble the cooperative housing section faces was illustrated by another vote in the committee on a motion by Senator Bricker (R.-Ohio). He moved that the administration's cooperative housing program be stricken from the bill.

The vote in the 13-man committee had reached 6 to 6, it was learned, when Bricker withdrew the motion and agreed to go along on postponing action until Feb. 23.

May Start

Bonn, Germany, Feb. 10 (AP)—West Germany's parliament, against vigorous Communist opposition, voted 105,000,000 deutsche marks ($25,000,000) today to aid western Berlin.

The bill provides for channelling European recovery funds and German federal funds for reconstruction of the West Berlin power station, which had been stripped by the Russians in the early days of the occupation.

The measure also underwrites the trade of the western sectors of the city.

Five Youths Held; Brink Clue Cited Following Arrest

Dedham, Mass., Feb. 10 (AP)—Five youths were under arrest today on charges of kidnapping and assault with intent to commit rape on a young college librarian.

Ann McCarthy, 21, a college graduate, brought about the arrest of the quintet not long after she was thrown from an automobile.

She is the daughter of Police Sergeant John T. McCarthy, who turned up the first definite clue to last month's Brink's robbery.

The officer noted the serial numbers of a pistol found in Somerville matched the FBI listing of a weapon stolen in the million-dollar stickup.

The kidnapping last night had no connection with the robbery, police said.

Police Chief John B. Cahill said the youths did not know who the girl was when she was snatched near her home. One car pulled up beside her and its occupants accosted her. A second automobile drove up and Miss McCarthy said she was forced into it.

Heart of Housing Program Meets Trouble in Senate

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The $2,000,000,000 heart of President Truman's middle-income housing program appeared today to be in serious trouble in the Senate Banking Committee.

That is the part of the program which calls for government-backed loans of that amount to housing cooperatives made up of families whose income ranges generally from $2,400 to $4,700 a year.

The Banking Committee voted 7 to 6 late yesterday to shelve the whole bill for two weeks pending a study as to what its impact would be on the national economy. The action was taken after several members said they feel

Car Strikes Girder at West Camp

Was on His Way Home

Thrown From Car

Young Man Is Thrown From Vehicle, Landed on Highway

A 22-year-old student at Morrisville Agricultural and Technical Institute died Thursday evening of a compound skull fracture received in an automobile accident near West Camp.

State police and Coroner Ernest A. Kelly identified the youth as James Manganello, 22, of 29 Primrose street, White Plains. He and three other youths were returning from the college in Madison county in central New York state to their homes when their automobile struck a bridge on Route 9W one-half mile south of West Camp, state police said.

The accident occurred at 6:30 p. m. Manganello was pronounced dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital after he was taken there by Layton's ambulance of Saugerties.

No Others Hurt Badly

Others in the automobile were not seriously injured, state police said. They were listed as: William Henry Newark, 18, of Hopewell Junction, driver of the vehicle, no injuries; Samuel Lofaro, 21, of Milltown, lacations of the face, and George A. Stuhner, 21, of Gardiner, contusions and abrasions. They were not hospitalized, troopers said.

Sergeant W. H. Hunk and Troopers Lankausen and Nicodemus of the Lake Katrine state police post investigated. They reported this version of the accident:

The four youths were riding south on Route 9W in a 1948 Ford Tudor sedan. After passing a traffic truck going in the same direction, their vehicle swerved back to the right lane and its right side struck the girders in the north end of a bridge which crosses over the railroad tracks.

The right side of the automobile "was torn off," troopers said.

Thrown From Car

Manganello, who was riding in the right side of the rear seat, was thrown out of the vehicle and landed on the highway.

Coroner Kelly issued a verdict of accidental death after an autopsy had been performed by Dr. Herman R. Ash of Saugerties, Dr. J. Spottiswood Taylor and Dr. Anthony T. Wynn of Kingston. Novak, listed by state police as driver of the sedan, was not held.

Manganello's funeral will be held in White Plains on February 14. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary Cemetery there.

Passenger Is Killed

Toccoa, Ga., Feb. 10 (AP)—One person was killed and seven were injured in the crash of a New York-bound Greyhound bus and an automobile four miles east of here last night. The bus, carrying 21 passengers, careened down a two-lane road and struck a pickup truck driven by Bill Brevett, 16, of Cumming, Ga., driver of the automobile was killed. Passengers who were not injured continued their journey northward on a special bus.

Five Persons Killed

Grenoble, France, Feb. 10 (AP)—Five persons were killed early today in the French Alps when a snowslide buried the homes of power plant workers near the Tignes dam in Savoie. Two other persons are believed to be still buried under the snow. It was the second disastrous avalanche this week. Twelve coal miners were killed by slides from Alpe d'Huez Wednesday.

Corsi Says Help

compensation legislation, Corsi said.

Next came unemployment insurance, insurance against old age, home relief, and now the latest labor legislation, that providing sickness disability benefits, the speaker said. He termed the program the most progressive of all the states.

"The workman is entitled to help when he loses his job, when he is hurt, when he is old, when he is helpless and in need, and when he is sick," he said.

Commissioner Corsi devoted the major portion of his talk to explaining the newly enacted sickness disability law and to enlisting the cooperation of the private insurance agents in its administration.

He insisted that the new law will provide for the payment of benefits "in the traditional American way." Private insurance companies will be given the opportunity to carry the disability insurance, and labor will share in its cost, he said.

Warning that "we will have a lot of chiseling and a lot of administrative difficulties," he asked that private insurance carriers be willing to take all the risks, not just the best ones. He said the state depends upon the private insurance companies to do a fair job.

Disappearing fear that the state might drive the private insurance companies out of business, he spoke directly to the local agents: "You can carry the whole (disability insurance) proposition."

The concept in the state constitution that society must protect man when he cannot protect himself is "as settled as the stars," Corsi said with his own opinion. Beyond that, "when man is able to help himself, he should."

He urged local agents to support the New York state program so that it can become an example for the rest of the country, proving that "man can insure himself through private enterprise in cooperation with his government."

Attempting to explain the growing demand for social legislation, as well as to explain strikes and labor unrest, Commissioner Corsi declared that "lurking in the background is the idea that in the American democracy there is a partnership in producing goods and services. What he wants is not just an opportunity to share in political democracy, but that he share in economic and industrial democracy. He wants to banish from his life the element of insecurity. Growing in the mind of the worker is the concept that he is more important in production of goods and services than is capital."

As state industrial commissioner, Corsi heads the State Department of Labor. His job, in his own words, is "primarily to deal with the interest of the man who works for wages."

Another portion of Corsi's address was devoted to industrial safety. He explained the operation of his department's safety division which is attempting to cut the toll of 700,000 or more accidents which occur every year in this state in factories or shops.

In this, he pointed out, the state government and private insurance companies have a common goal. He commended the private companies for their investment of "millions of dollars" in an effort to cut down preventable accidents.

One of the guests at the dinner Thursday night was Mrs. Harry P. Van Wageningen, chairman of the Ulster County Safety Council. In introducing her, Allan L. Hanstein, chairman, urged the local insurance agents to extend more cooperation to her group in its efforts to promote safety.

Commissioner Corsi was introduced by Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the Court of Appeals, who as a professor at Fordham Law School, was one of Corsi's teachers.

Loughran introduced, in making the introduction, Judge Loughran commented, "we have a wonderfully sound and carefully phrased labor law in New York state, some of which we owe to the great American, Alfred E. Smith."

Roy A. Duffus, president of the New York State Insurance Agents Association, outlined the efforts of that association in seeking certain legislation.

Held to ten minutes because of a commitment to broadcast Corsi's talk at 9 p. m. over WKNY, Duffus in rapid-fire order spoke of asking for repeal of the law that authorized 16-year-olds to obtain senior motor vehicle operators' licenses and asking for passage of an "anti-coercion" law which would make it illegal to force buyers of automobiles on a time payment plan to place insurance with specified carriers.

He also pointed out it is necessary to "keep after" the auto drivers, in the 18 to 20 age bracket because, he said, they constitute but four and one-half per cent of the state's drivers but account for nine per cent of the fatal accidents.

Duffus informed the members that in Canada there is a law providing an extra $1 assessment on license fees to provide a fund for persons injured by uninsured drivers. He urged agents to study this and reach their own conclusions, but for himself, he said, "I do not think you and I should pay into a fund because some other driver is not insured."

Charles Rinschler, president of the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association, opened the meeting by welcoming visiting agents and representatives, including delegations from Sullivan, Orange, Dutchess counties.

Defining the scope of the association, Rinschler said the agents "remain highly competitive, but have found it profitable to meet together on a higher plane to contend with certain problems."

Among the undertakings of the association which Rinschler said he hoped to see during the next year were efforts to develop city inspection in Kingston of all mercantile buildings, and the underwriting of the costs of conducting a safety campaign through high schools in the county.

Among the guests who were introduced were Assemblyman John Wadlin, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, former Mayor George C. Williams, who represented Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and Frederick Snyder.

Congress Shows

done all it can toward getting international atomic controls.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told a reporter he doesn't favor any new plea to the Russians.

"Let's go ahead and build the hydrogen bomb and maybe they do," he said.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), a member of the Senate House Atomic Committee, said the Baruch proposal is "a good enough plan for any honest nation."

Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), another member of the committee, said that while he isn't against reviewing the atomic situation, "any plan that is effective has got to have the inspection provision to which Russia objects."

Senator Ives (R-N.Y.) said he sees no reason to change the Baruch plan.

There were some in the Senate, however, who weren't satisfied with Acheson's outline of what they called a policy of pitting American forcefulness against Russian forcefulness in critical spots of the world.

Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who has been plugging for an Atlantic political and economic union of non-Communist states, said a lot of things can be done by this country without waiting for an agreement with Russia.

"The American people don't lie the catch-as-catch-can foreign policy that we seem to have now," he said.

The President's firm stand behind the Baruch plan seemed a likely topic for discussion at a closed meeting 10:30 a. m. of the Senate-House Atomic Committee with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The meeting, called to talk over money matters was certain to concern the hydrogen bomb development ordered by the President.

The House yesterday sent to the Senate an emergency appropriations bill containing $78,885,000 in additional contract authority for the AEC to be used between now and next July 1.

The money will pay for the speed-up of a program ordered last fall after Russia exploded an atomic bomb. House appropriations committee members said the new fund is not connected with the H-bomb project.

Heart of Housing

had not voted on the Bricker proposal when it was withdrawn. An aide of Frear said later that the senator has not decided how he will vote on the issue when it comes up again, as it almost certainly will.

The new surge of opposition to the cooperative housing program took its backers by surprise. Only three days ago the program was approved, 6 to 1, by a subcommittee.

Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) argued that the proposed loans would be spread over so long a period that there is no basis for saying the program would be inflationary.

Senator Ives (R-N.Y.), on the other hand, commented that he is "very fearful of the inflationary effects." Ives said he is for cooperative housing, but not the administration program.

The committee asked the Federal Reserve Board to analyze the whole bill—not just the cooperative housing section.

One of the other sections would liberalize the government mortgage insurance program by providing for smaller down payments on individual homes built to rent. The authority for that insurance program, carried on by the Federal Housing Administration (F.H.A.), would be extended indefinitely. It is scheduled to expire March 1—just a week after the committee resumes consideration of the housing bill.

Parliament Votes

Berlin, It guarantees payment for goods manufactured in Berlin for export, where "risks resulting from the political situation," might be involved.

Western Berlin has been caught in an economic squeeze because of its position as an isolated island in the heart of Russian-occupied territory, subject to constant harassment of its traffic by the Russians.

The Communists, opposing the bill, charged Western Berlin's plight was inevitable under the western policies, and stressed that only German unity as outlined by the Communists could help the city.

Political bickering stalled the West German government plan to spend 3,400,000 marks ($850,000,000) to provide jobs for 1,000,000 unemployed in the federal republic.

Leftist Socialists won parliamentary adoption of their previous resolution calling on Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government for a program to deal with the 1,900,000 jobless in West Germany, whose estimated population is 95,000,000.

Adenauer submitted his plan to parliament yesterday. He sought to have it approved before the Socialist demand was voted on to keep the Socialists from sharing in the credit for the program.

A number of government supporters, however, left the parliamentary chamber during the 10 hours of debate that followed.

Socialists who ousted the government forces then secured a favorable vote

Vogeler to Get Espionage Trial

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Ministry of Justice announced today that American businessman Robert E. Vogeler would be tried Feb. 17 on charges of espionage and sabotage.

Vogeler, European representative of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., has been held incommunicado since his arrest last Nov. 18.

The ministry announced Edward Sanders, British subject and local I. T. & T. representative, and five Hungarian Nationals also would be tried with Vogeler before a Budapest Court of Justice.

The government has announced that Vogeler and Sanders have confessed their guilt.

The U. S. State Department ordered Hungary's consulate in New York and Cleveland closed after the government here refused to let American Minister Nathaniel P. Davis interview Vogeler and another American arrested here.

The latter, Jewish Welfare Agency Director Isaac Jacobson, later was released and expelled from the country.

Vogeler probably will be defended by a Hungarian attorney appointed by the Hungarian government. A request has been made that he be allowed to use an American attorney also. Deputy Premier Matyas Rakosi said this would have to be "considered" by the government and that he could give no assurance it would be permitted.

Industrial Management Dinner

A demonstration dinner meeting of the Kingston Industrial Management Club was held Wednesday evening at the Y.M.C.A. There were over 100 men present, representing 46 local industries. Among those at the speakers' table, left to right, were: Ralph M. Cooper, acting chairman; J. R. Lergay, president Troy Industrial Club; H. J. McNear, president Newburgh Industrial Club; J. D. Johnson, vice president of the Scranton Club; Ernest M. Ford, state secretary of the Y.M.C.A.; Sterling W. Mudge, guest speaker; Floyd R. LeFever, director of Kingston Y.M.C.A. (Freeman Photo)

Local Industrial Management Club Dinner-Meeting

More than 100 men, executives and supervisors representing 46 Kingston industries, Wednesday evening attended a demonstration dinner meeting of the Kingston Industrial Management Club at the Y.M.C.A. banquet hall.

Sterling W. Mudge, supervisor of training, Socomey Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., New York city, guest speaker, presented a very interesting talk on the subject, "Moving Ahead in Management."

In his speech, Mr. Mudge pointed out the fact that no matter what type of industry or business involved, it is the "individual people of the concern who produce results. This," he further stated, "is a well known and recognized fact, but little is done about it. The majority of executives today are more concerned with costs, budgets, machinery and facilities, and do not give much attention to the development of their people. In order to obtain better results, the people within industry should be encouraged and coached by the foreman, supervisor and manager."

"Within industry, the most important position is held by the supervisor, or foreman, as he is the one who makes contact with the employees," Mr. Mudge explained. "He can, in his position, encourage or discourage the employees, and influence them to desire to be loyal to the company and produce good work. In general, the foreman or supervisor can help tremendously toward solving present day conflicts between employer and employee, and aid in avoiding many misunderstandings."

A decision was made to officially organize the Kingston Industrial Management Club on Thursday, February 23, and an organization committee was selected to meet at this time for the purpose of drafting a club constitution, by-laws, and forming other necessary plans. Election of officers will be held at a later date.

Following the playing of the National Anthem, the men sang one verse of "America." Invocation was given by Chester A. Baltz, Jr., of C. A. Baltz and Sons, The Women's Auxiliary of the "Y" served a delicious roast beef dinner, during which time a musical trio from the Hercules Powder Company entertained. Group singing was led by John Reid of the Scranton Lace Company. Ray Howe, popular local baritone, rendered two solos.

Lloyd LeFever, member of the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors, welcomed the assembled men and introduced several local and out-of-town guests, including Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Henry Singer of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, representatives from Industrial Clubs in Newburgh, Troy, Glens Falls and Scranton, Pa.; Dale Swartzmiller, regional director for the New York State Department of Commerce, and Y.M.C.A. officials.

Ralph M. Cooper, manager of the Scranton Lace Company, Kingston Division, as acting chairman, introduced the guest speakers, including Mr. Mudge, and Ernest M. Ford, executive secretary of the New York State Y.M.C.A. Mr. Ford briefly explained the details of the Industrial Clubs in New York State. He also stated the aims and purposes of the club and gave a number of examples of how a club in Kingston could help not only the industries represented at the dinner, but the entire community.

Mr. Ford read letters and telegrams from several industrial clubs all over the country which sent their best wishes for a successful Kingston club. The Troy Industrial Management Club presented the Kingston club with an engraved gavel to be used at the charter meeting which may be conducted next month.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk spoke briefly and heartily endorsed the organization of the club.

Membership is limited to men in a supervisory or executive position in the industries of Kingston, or neighboring communities. The primary purpose of the club is to develop leadership abilities and to promote better human relations in industry. Meetings will be conducted monthly except during the summer at the "Y."

Burton S. Tandy, local "Y" general secretary, who has given much effort toward the organization of the Kingston club, will be glad to give details to industries not represented at last evening's meeting, and who are interested in joining.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—The return of the public to the stock market may gladden the hearts of brokers. But it sharpens a fight for the public's spare dollars. And the savings banks and, to some extent, the insurance companies are showing signs of alarm.

"Last year the investor began to be important again," says Charles E. Merrill, directing partner of the world's largest brokerage firm, Merrill, Lynch, Pierce & Beane, in stating the broker's side of the argument.

"More scientific and equitable tax laws could give a positive stimulus to risk-taking through common stock ownership," Merrill says. "This would be of great benefit to new and expanding enterprises, and consequently to each of us."

"The great majority of people in the securities business haven't lifted a finger to help in the public educational job that must be done."

But some bankers and heads of savings institutions think that, on the contrary, some brokers' fingers have been lifted a trifle too high.

Thrill and safety are important to large segments of the public, and the chance for greater gain, William J. Dwyer, president of the Franklin Society, says today. The head of the savings institution says some investment houses are trying "to wean an uninformed public away from thrift accounts into the stock market, solely with the bright lure of greater dividend return."

"Investment in common stock is a legitimate and necessary function in our economy," Dwyer concedes. "Nevertheless such action does a disservice to the wage earner whose limited funds demand above all else, safety of principal."

"It is well to remember that stocks have neither fixed dividends nor fixed market prices. Sometimes they go up and sometimes they go down. How much they are worth at any given time depends upon many complex factors."

These two schools of thought—the conservative approach to saving and the "nothing ventured, nothing gained" one—also formed the basis yesterday for a debate between bankers at the midwinter trust conference here of the American Bankers Association.

Mayo A. Shattuck, a Boston attorney in the investment trust field, urges trust men to be "bold and imaginative" in assisting businessmen. "There is a heavy economic and social loss involved in dead weight conservatism," Shattuck says.

But Louis S. Headley, president of the First Trust Co. of St. Paul, Minn., defends the conservative side. The object of a trust is to assure family security, he says, and conservation of a productive principal is the foundation for providing that security.

As yet, there are few signs that greater public participation in the stock market has cut into total savings, as separate from security holdings. Americans generally continue to build up their nest eggs each year, in spite of the high cost of living.

But competing with the stock brokers, security dealers, and mutual investment funds for the public's savings are the savings and loan associations, banks in general, the life insurance companies, and, very importantly, the federal government. U. S. Savings Bonds account for more than $56½ billion of American families' savings. Pension funds, both public and private, are another form of savings that currently compete more and more for the extra dollar of workers. Life insurance policies are at an all-time high in total value.

With national income high, and security the great concern of most people, the competition from all sides for your spare cash bids well to grow steadily tougher as the year rolls on.

Says Russia Is Ahead

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—An American aviation expert said today Russia is ahead of the United States both in aircraft production and in the number of military planes it has in service. However, said John F. Victory, executive secretary of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

(N.A.C.A.), this country isn't disturbed by that situation because it feels that it has the better planes. "We think we still have supremacy in the air," he said, "because of the superior performance and military effectiveness of our aircraft."

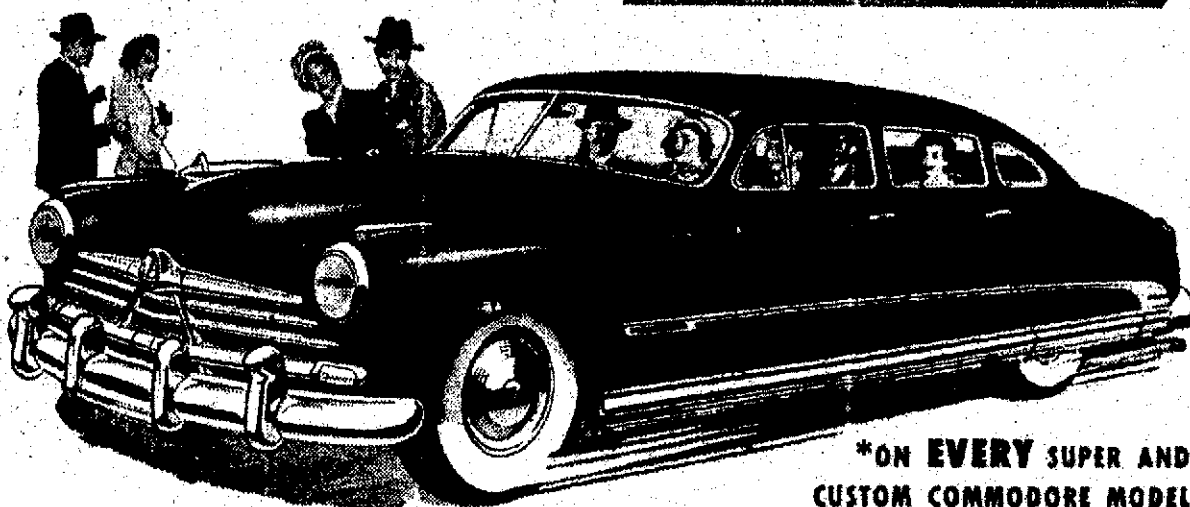

Ton of Mail a Year

Washington, Feb. 9 (AP)—How much free mail does a congressman send out in the course of a year? About a ton and a half, says Rep. Edwin Arthur Hall (R-N.Y.) Hall said that was "the average" during debate on a bill boosting most mailing rates. The measure does not affect the free mailing privilege of Congress.

*Trade-in and options pending.

TODAY'S THE DAY!

The day to see the gorgeous Hudsons for 1950 that bring you a fresh motoring experience—"The New Step-Down Ride"—at sensational lower prices on every Super and Custom Commodore model.

This is the ride that cradles you in the lowest-built car of them all!

You instantly see that these New Hudsons have the lowest center of gravity in any American automobile—and as a result, you know instinctively, as you view them, that they hug the road more tenaciously and are therefore America's best-riding, safest cars!

You quickly see, too, that these low-built Hudsons for 1950 have full road clearance and more head room than in any mass-produced car built today—thanks to "step-down" design with its recessed floor!

And amazing head room is only one kind of spaciousness you'll find in these great cars! Through "step-down" design and ingenious use of space that is wasted in other makes, these new, streamlined Hudsons of normal exterior width bring you seat cushions that are up to 12 inches wider than those in cars of greater outside dimensions.

In fact, when you try "The New Step-Down Ride", you'll find the New Hudson has more inside room than any other car, at any price!

You'll thrill to the get-up-and-go performance of your choice of two of the greatest engines in a long line of great Hudson engines—the high-compression Super-Six, America's most powerful Six, or the even more powerful high-compression Super-Eight!

But these are only a few of the great features of "The New Step-Down Ride" that mean more value at less cost. There are more, so many more that the only way to really appreciate all that the New Hudsons for 1950 have for you is to come in, try them yourself. May we expect you soon?

CURB POTATO SURPLUS

The folly of combining farm price supports with ineffective production controls is sharply highlighted by the government's plan to throw away 50,000,000 bushels of potatoes it expects will be left over from the 1949 crop.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan says the department already has bought 20,000,000 bushels and will have to acquire perhaps another 70,000,000. Only about 40,000,000 of this total can be disposed of usefully.

The purchases are made under the program requiring the government to support potato prices at 60 per cent of the so-called parity level—a price plan designed to give farmers adequate buying power.

The government gets rid of surplus potatoes in several ways: It gives them to school lunch programs, foreign and domestic relief agencies and government units which may trade them for strategic materials needed in this country. It also sells potatoes at bargain prices to exporters, to alcohol manufacturers and livestock producers (for food).

The National Potato Council, representing the industry, thinks the extra 50,000,000 bushels should be made available to industrial users. But Brannan says plants won't take them unless the government pays the freight. The department can save $15,000,000 in freight charges by dumping the potatoes instead.

Even if that saving is made, the government will lose $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 on the 1949 potato crop. It lost around $225,000,000 in 1948, including $25,000,000 just for shipping surpluses to points where they could be used.

Currently the department tries to limit potato output by restricting the number of acres that can be planted. But this isn't effective because many farmers simply plant their rows closer together, apply fertilizer and insecticides more freely, and come up with more potatoes than ever.

Brannan, joined by his predecessor, Senator Anderson of New Mexico, has asked Congress to establish marketing quotas as the only sensible curb on runaway production. Such quotas specifically limit the number of bushels a farmer may produce. They usually are accompanied by penalties for failure to stay within bounds.

If Congress is not ready to impose workable controls, it would be better to remove price supports from potatoes altogether. For, as presently operated, the program discredits the entire support plan for a wide range of crops. And it obviously means an intolerable waste of food, money, and productive energies.

The card catalogue system whereby the Nazi Gestapo kept track of its subjects is not unknown even in this so-called free United States. The Jersey City machine headed by Frank Hague kept such a record, by war and precinct, with comments on the voters' political leanings. The listing, contained in three two-inch volumes, was discovered in his office by the new anti-Hague deputy mayor, William J. Flanagan.

LINCOLN, THE STRATEGIST

Lincoln's reputation, which has been rising ever since his death, has grown particularly in the field of strategy. Admittedly this country lawyer from Springfield, Ill., knew nothing about war when he became President. It became his chief duty to master the subject. While he naturally committed some blunders at the outset, it is now the opinion of students of the war that he finally became a strategist of high quality.

The naval blockade was perhaps the strongest weapon of the North. This was one policy on which Lincoln insisted, according to the Englishman, Brig. Gen. Colin R. Ballard, who wrote a special study, "The Military Genius of Abraham Lincoln". Another valuable contribution was his insistence on maintaining pressure all along the line and along all fronts from Virginia to Missouri. The professionals who commanded the Army of the Potomac in the first years of the war, McClellan, Pope, Burnside and

"GUILTY OF TREASON"

A motion picture is only a story and a trial in a law court is a reality; therefore comparisons are difficult. Yet, when one sees the film "Guilty of Treason," a motion picture dealing with the case of Cardinal Mindszenty, it is impossible not to think of the long trial of the 11 Communist leaders in New York, of the two Alger Hiss trials, of the numerous Harry Bridges trials, of the current appeals of the contemptuous lawyers for various Communists and of the freedom with which spies, scientists and otherwise, ply their trade in our country.

The heart of the problem is human dignity—the dignity of the individual man. In the United States, we have thus far not permitted war or the fear of war to impair our respect for the inalienable rights of man bestowed upon him by the Creator—as it is said in the Declaration of Independence:

"That all men . . . are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights."

We have not departed from that. Lesser men, and greater too than Alger Hiss, have been killed in other countries out of hand for what Hiss has done. Here he was given a fair trial with every advantage to prove his innocence, if he could. In no totalitarian country would lawyers dare to act as the lawyers for the Communists did in Judge Medina's court. They would have been arrested, imprisoned, exiled or killed. Here they are given a chance to appeal from the judge's decision.

Ours is a good way of life, although dangerous. For whereas the benefits are invaluable to most of us, there are always indecent people to take advantage of good laws to use them to the detriment of all. We punish the wrong-doer without impairing the law. In the totalitarian countries, they punish on suspicion, lest the danger become too costly to the state.

In "Guilty of Treason," the entire operation of the Soviet apparatus, not only in a conquered country like Hungary, but in any country, is uncovered with documentary fidelity. It is a startling, dramatic story. After seeing this picture, it is possible to understand why Hiss, Whitaker Chambers, Noel Field, Dr. Klaus Fuchs and the vast number of persons who foul our world.

Not all those we wonder at are Communists; some are innocent persons who for one reason or another find themselves dragged into a world not their own; others are moral cowards who hope to prolong their days by toying with tools, the use of which they do not understand. And others are basically vile, even sadistic, who find in the persecution of their colleagues, an outlet for their whims.

I do not want to spoil your taste for "Guilty of Treason." I have now seen it twice and have found it to be of absorbing interest. I shall see it again to swell, with my dollar, its box-office returns. That is one way of contributing to the cause of good motion pictures.

And while we are on the subject of spending dollars on motion pictures, I want to say that not one dollar of mine will be spent on any picture in which Ingrid Bergman or Roberto Rossellini have any part. That is my way of protesting against their utter disregard of respect for the opinions of others.

Those who have money invested in their films have started a propaganda which runs something like this:

"Thousands of women have done the same thing. The only reason Ingrid Bergman stands out is because she is a famous movie actress. After all, what has she done? Practiced 'sacred love'."

It is a disgusting argument. Thousands have committed murder, thousands have been burglars, thousands have committed adultery. Why do we put any of them in jail? Why not have an anarchistic society?

Practically because Ingrid Bergman has been so well-known, she had a moral responsibility not to flout the decent opinions of others, not to set herself up as an example of the woman who willfully deserts home, husband and child to pursue the riotous course of what Hollywood calls 'sacred love'.

All love is sacred—and it can be experienced with propriety and without putting to shame three innocent children.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SHELL SHOCK, SOLDIER'S HEART

During and following World War I, a number of men were returned to base hospitals suffering with what was called by various names—shell shock, soldier's heart, disordered heart action and others—but was finally more properly called neurocirculatory asthenia, meaning weakness of nerves, heart and blood vessels. The symptoms were many, including breathlessness, nervousness, palpitation of the heart, irritability, chest discomfort, tiredness and spells of dizziness, faintness or anxiety.

Physicians had seen this condition in civilian patients for years before World Wars I and II, and had described it as neurasthenia, nervous exhaustion, anxiety neurosis, effort syndrome, cardiac (heart) neurosis.

In "Medical Clinics of North America," Dr. Mandel E. Cohen, Harvard Medical School, Boston, and Massachusetts General Hospital, states that systematic and thorough questioning by the physician may reveal many symptoms in addition to the chief complaint, such as difficulty in doing hard work and sleep, in meeting emotion-provoking situations, "I can't do my housework," "I can't take a taxi," or "I can't stand a noisy argument or a noisy room" are typical statements.

Among other symptoms present are headaches, blurred vision and giddiness, difficulty in breathing, feeling of smothering, inability to get enough air, sighing, breathlessness on exertion or even when sitting, choking feeling in groups or in a car or bus, a feeling of gas around the heart.

The average age for the onset of these symptoms is 25; generally they appear between the ages of 18 and 35. Most of us have experienced one or all of the above symptoms at various times, but these patients are afflicted with them practically all the time.

The cause of neurocirculatory asthenia is not known, except that circumstances have exhausted the physical, mental and emotional strength of the individual. As to treatment, Dr. Cohen states that after a thorough examination, reassurance and explanation should include telling the patient that the disorder is one with which the physician is familiar, that while the disorder is uncomfortable it is not permanent and will pass away; it is never fatal; it is not cancer, insanity or heart disease; in fact, the patient may resume games and athletics.

Hooker, all proved inferior to the civilian Lincoln in their appreciation of the necessity of fighting all the time and everywhere.

It took Lincoln a long time to find a suitable commander-in-chief. When the man was finally located in Grant, the war progressed to a successful conclusion. It might have taken much longer, or ended differently, had Abraham Lincoln been less quick to master military strategy.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Rate coal miners

use of the Taft-Hartley Act couldn't have come at a better time for John L. Lewis or at a worse time for the country. For the first time in three years there was real revolt against John L. in the coal pits. But not now. Now the Taft-Hartley Act has made him a hero. Miners are suffering from the same factor which hit them before the war—overproduction plus increasing use of gas and oil. But they had been on a short week, had been trying to negotiate which is what the Taft-Hartley Act provides for. Now they're required under a compulsory law to do what they were already willing to do.

That's what the Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson has received a lot of gripes about the money pouring into Sen. Robert Taft's campaign. The complaints come from Republican candidates outside Ohio, who claim they can't raise funds because local fat cats are being touched for Taft's benefit. The Taft crowd is sending out chain letters urging that a Taft defeat would be "a complete surrender to socialism."

Playboy Communist—The playboy of Communist China, Gen. Chen Yi, is in trouble with the more militant Mao Tse-tung, because of his lavish parties and a string of concubines. Early in December, General Chen gave the biggest whoop-do-do parties Shanghai has seen for a decade. Stories drifting out of Shanghai to U. S. intelligence say General Chen had pine houses and as many concubines, before he was dressed down by Communist superiors.

Four big efficient—Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois, who looks as if he were sore at the world but isn't, is doing a bang-up job as majority leader—though he won't get credit for it. Few majority leaders ever do—until they are promoted upstairs to become vice president. Even the now beloved Barkley was the object of uneasiness brickbats as floor leader. However, Lucas can best be judged by results, and the job he has done of jamming the Truman program through Congress is amazing.

Hopes the Lady Loses—California's Rep. Dick Nixon, a shrewd and courteous congressman, has indicated that he hopes a lady loses. The lady is Congresswoman

Helen Gahagan Douglas, also of California, who is running against Sen. Sheridan Downey in the Democratic senatorial primaries. And the reason Nixon hopes she loses is that he, Nixon, is planning to run for the Senate on the Republican ticket, and Downey would be easier to beat. "Douglas stands for something," Nixon told friends recently, "whereas Downey has been on all sides of almost every issue."

No Immigration by Religion

Forrest Donnell, the conscientious Missouri Republican, recently killed a discrimination feature in the Displaced Persons bill. It happened in a closed-door session of the Senate Judiciary Committee, where Donnell listened carefully while Chairman Pat McCarran explained his D P bill in a piping voice.

After reading the formula for admitting displaced persons in proportion to the per cent of Americans with similar religious and national origins, McCarran wheezed "Any questions?"

"I object," said Donnell firmly. McCarran looked as though he had been slapped by his best friend.

I do not like this religious-proportion thing," spoke up Donnell stoutly. "For 150 years we have had the principle of separation of church and state. Man should be treated as an individual and not as a member of a minority group. He should not be discriminated against because of his religion."

There was a chorus of support from other senators, and the McCarran formula was knocked out. Diplomatic Cables

More Russian U-Boats—General MacArthur has told the Joint Chiefs of Staff that there soon will be 90 Russian submarines in the Pacific instead of 70. MacArthur reported that the Russians have shipped 20 more subs to North China over the Trans-Siberian Railway. They arrive unannounced and are put together by Russian technicians and workmen at the ports of Vladivostok and Komosolsk.

Soviet Spy Scare—U. S. Ambassador Kirk reports there is a tremendous spy scare in Russia. Hundreds of persons have been arrested in the Ukraine on suspicion of spying for foreigners. Russian workers are being urged by posters, radio broadcasts and special lecture to report anything suspicious to the Soviet N.K.V.D. Maybe Russia's success in spying on the west has made them jittery about their own security.

Bulgarian Break—A special

Moscow courier has arrived in Sofia secretly by plane to urge the Bulgarian government to back down on its demand that the United States withdraw its minister, Nathaniel Davis. The American Legation hasn't been able to learn the identity of the courier but it's believed he is Andrei Gromyko, deputy Soviet foreign minister.

The secret visit shows the importance that Moscow attaches to the possibility that the United States will break with Bulgaria and close up the Bulgarian Legation in Washington. The latter is a good listening post.

Communist Have Trouble—A serious riot by 20,000 textile workers against Communist authorities took place in Shanghai last month. It followed a wage cut and an announcement that the customary annual bonus paid by the China Textile Company would be canceled.

Workers forced down pictures of Mao Tse-tung and Chu Teh, while troops with machine guns were sent to the factory gates. One hundred workers were arrested.

Merry-Go-Round

He doesn't like to be reminded of it, but Franco Spain's chief lobbyist for American aid is the same gentleman who once gave Jap diplomats a big party in Vichy to celebrate the Japanese capture of Manila. He is Jose Felix de Laguerre, and you can see him dancing at the parties of many Washington hostesses. . . . Tom Murphy, the Justice Department lawyer who prosecuted Alger Hiss, is being boomed as Democratic candidate for governor of New York.

John Lodge of Connecticut may run for the Senate instead of Time-Life publisher Henry Luce. He is the brother of Massachusetts Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge and has pretty much what it takes to win.

Cleaning Price

Los Angeles, AP—A court has ruled that establishing a minimum charge for cleaning suits and topcoats will not improve the public health. The State Board of Dry Cleaners sought to restrain one business from doing the work for less than the minimum charging that public health and safety would be threatened. Superior Judge Clarence Hansen denied an injunction holding that a price increase would not raise health standards.

Today in Washington

Official Sources Discredit Several Bits of Erroneous News of Bombs and Spies

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 10—Today might well be called "debunk day." For, amid the hysteria about hydrogen bombs and atomic warfare and spies, a variety of official sources debunked some widely spread pieces of misinformation.

First, the Atomic Energy Commission in an official document distributed to American states and cities declared that damage from an atomic bomb burst would be severe within a half-mile radius, but that above-ground protection was practical beyond that radius. Also, protection is afforded a few feet underground even in the center of the bombed area. Yet last autumn many a critic lambasted Commander T. G. Thompson of the navy when he testified that he would be willing to stand at one end of the airport—in the open where debris wouldn't fall—a mile away from an atomic bomb burst and he would not be hurt.

Second, Col. James P. Cooney, Atomic Energy Commission official and radiology consultant to the surgeon general of the army, said that rescue workers could enter an area where an atomic bomb had been dropped just as soon as the radio-active clouds lifted. He stated that while the radiation hazard was not to be underestimated, people had been frightened to the extent that they thought it dangerous to go in and rescue the wounded. Dr. E. E. Lapp, an atomic bomb expert, several weeks ago revealed that he had entered the Bikini area the same day the bomb had been dropped, and he, too, minimized the radiation hazard.

Third, Dr. Vannevar Bush, top scientist who headed up for the government the atomic bomb project in wartime, told the Senate Armed Services Committee that successful development of the hydrogen bomb did not have any more than a 50-50 chance of success because it is a problem of atomicity whether a container able to hold the weapon or an airplane able to transport it could be devised.

Fourth, Dr. Bush expressed doubts also as to the value of the hydrogen bomb "secrets" known by Dr. Fuchs, British scientist, now doing spy work in London. Dr. Bush said that information available to Fuchs was of a "primary" nature when the hydrogen project was in its infant stages.

All this adds up to the impression in the last few days which have scared the daylight out of Congress and perhaps the people generally are not as positive as they first appeared to be.

This doesn't by any means reduce the necessity for care and scrutiny of all persons who may have access to secrets, nor does it justify any reduction in appropriations for atomic espionage. But it does indicate how easily some members of Congress can be swept off their feet by misinformation.

The most important point that Dr. Bush made to the Senate committee probably will be glossed over because its implications are not readily understood. He expressed concern over the lack of unified weapons planning for the country. Dr. Louis B. Born, president of Harvard and another high-level scientist made the same criticism the other day remarking that political decisions in some instances are being made with reference to weapons.

Dr. Bush mentioned pressures related to demands for tanks and planes and urged a division of the defense dollar on a scientific basis. This means that the weapons evaluation board in the Department of Defense is not yet functioning and that perhaps obstacles have been put in the way of its proper operation on a scientific basis.

Last but not least, Dr. Bush pointed out that the only defense against the atom bomb—whether it is hydrogen or any other kind—is against those who carry or manufacture or transport it. This simple observation means that while radar must detect the oncoming planes of an enemy, all warfare must be concentrated on demolishing the enemy's planes at his bases before they can get away or in intercepting enemy planes. There is as yet no defense against the bomb itself.

Maybe the most comforting statements of the day are the comment by Dr. Bush that he is confident American scientists are way ahead of the Russians and dispatches from British sources expressing doubt that the Russians have any long-range planes capable of carrying and detonating atomic bombs.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Fla., Feb. 10—The forecasts for 1950 recently issued by leading industrialists, economists and government officials all agree that 1950 will be a very competitive year.

Production has been greatly increased during the past ten years. Farmers are raising 225 per cent more products. Manufacturers are making 45 per cent more goods; there has been a large increase in the number of "service" jobs, from hairdressers to dry cleaners, while advertising has increased about 65 per cent. Yet, since 1940 our population has increased only 14 per cent. Hence, 1950 will see far greater domestic competition.

But in 1950, for the first time since 1940, the U. S. will face foreign competition. (Among the Christmas gifts received by baby was a five-pound box of candy made in Paris and flown to this country by airplane). The only hope for Europe and world peace is for us to buy more goods from abroad. This buying from abroad will need to increase in order to save off World War 3. This means more competition for U. S. manufacturers.

Advantages of Merchandising
 The one industry which need not fear this competition is well organized merchandising, perhaps best represented by the top chain store organizations. These are always looking for the best goods for the least money, wherever they are made or raised. They do not have money in farms, factories, banks or real estate investments. They are free lance salesmen with only one goal—namely to best serve consumers.

The Selling Industry is not tied down to one location, is not dependent upon any definite styles, and is not governed by bureaucratic regulations. Stores which are looking for the best goods for the least money, wherever they are made or raised, they do not have money in farms, factories, banks or real estate investments. Rescue Outlook Cheers Airmen Whitehorse, Y. T., Feb. 10 (AP)—The prospect of imminent rescue today cheered 10 airmen who have been stranded on a snowswept Yukon mountainside since their Canadian search plane crashed there three days ago.

Food and medical assistance was brought to the stranded airmen yesterday by a team of six daring paratroopers who plummeted to the treeless slope while a ground rescue party fought its way slowly toward the spot.

The paratroopers, who leaped from a Canadian Air Force plane, all landed safely within 300 yards of the marooned men, some of whom were badly in need of medical care.

A short time later, another Royal Canadian Air Force Dakota (Canadian equivalent of the U.S. A-1 C-47) dropped pup tents and half a cord of fire wood to the huddled party.

The 10 men, five U. S. airmen and five Canadian soldiers, were aboard a C-47 which crashed Tuesday night during the two-week-old search for a C-54 carrying 44 persons.

Included among the rescue party were Major S. J. Baczewski of Consochoke, Pa. He was to attend the three airmen who suffered leg and arm fractures in the crash.

Crew Comes Overland

Working toward the group, camped on the bald slope 7,000 feet up the mountain, was another 12-man rescue crew coming overland from Pon Lake, 15 miles away. It was to have reached the scene after nightfall last night but whether it arrived on schedule was not announced by headquarters here.

The overland party, dogged by bad luck, had only one of its original four snow vehicles at last reports. Three had lost their tracks in tough going along the bottom of Alahhik Creek, which winds through a canyon to the base of the mountain.

Plans called for the combined group to start the descent of the mountain early today.

A helicopter was held at Pon Lake to evacuate the crash victims.

Meanwhile, search officials planned to send more planes into the area southwest of Watson Lake in an effort to check a series of S.O.S. signals reported by a "ham" radio operator in South Dakota.

The operator, Bob Wagner, of Lead, S. D., said the signals were received Wednesday and gave the position at 130 W and 80 N, followed by the letters "no fo..." Then the signal faded, but Wagner said he thought the last word was "food."

Search officials treated the report with caution and emphasized that the Watson Lake area had been searched repeatedly since the C-54 disappeared Jan. 26.

Examination for Census Jobs Is Scheduled

The first of a series of examinations for positions in the Census Bureau will be held on February 15 at the Court House in Kingston. It was announced today by J. J. Carroll, district supervisor, for the United States Bureau of the Census.

Subsequent examinations will be held at Kingston, Foughkeepsie, Catskill, Hudson and Cobleskill. Plans for examinations at Beacon, Ellenville, Phoenixia, and other places most convenient to applicants from the areas are now being worked out by the Kingston district office.

Applicants for employment in Kingston and adjoining areas will be required to pass an oral and written test to demonstrate their ability for the work. The tests will indicate whether applicants can comprehend and follow the detailed instructions given to them as they train for their assignment.

Applicants must be United States citizens of good health and character, have completed high school or have comparable experience, be between 21 and 65 years of age, preferably between 25 and 45, and be financially able to sustain themselves for four weeks before receiving their first salary check. Persons are ineligible for consideration if they draw federal retirement pay (other than social security), are state or local government employees, law enforcement officers, officers of political organizations, individuals engaged in political activity or contemplating such activity during the Census taking period. Close relatives will not be considered for employment in the same locality in this area.

Applications may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of the Census, State Army Building, Manor avenue, this city. All persons filing applications will be notified of the time and place to appear for the written and oral tests.

Union College Display

Schenectady, Feb. 10—Historic documents going back to the earliest days of Union College and the First Reformed Church here will be on display at the church Feb. 11-12 in connection with the joint service to be held by the two old Schenectady institutions on Sunday night, February 12, as part of the three-week program of rededication of the new church building at Union and Church streets, Schenectady, replacing the edifice which was destroyed by fire in February, 1948.

Press Association Meets

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—Members of the New York Press Association, comprising publishers and editors of 130 weekly newspapers, met today for a two-day convention. A talk by Miss Mary Donlon, chairman of the state's women's compensation board, featured the day's program. Her topic was the state's new sickness disability law. James A. Failev, former postmaster general, speaks tonight.

I received a letter recently with today's hand enclosed from Rudolf Muham, manager of the Cavendish Club of New York.

I have not given you any bidding because I want you to discuss the bidding yourselves. There were nine pairs who played the hand. One pair bid and made seven hearts. Six pairs bid six hearts. One pair only got to five hearts and the other pair believe it or not, doubled the opponents at two spades.

The pair who bid and made seven hearts got a small trump opening by West. The trick was won by the declarer with the queen, after East dropped the queen. Declarer took two rounds of trump and then cashed the king of diamonds.

Richard Biehans spent a week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Burhans at Clinton Corners.

and the jack finned. After all declarer did not have much choice as his contract was to make seven. When it held he claimed the balance of the tricks.

Of the six pairs who bid six hearts, four of them went down. Most of them made the following mistake: They won the opening heart lead with the queen and led a small club to the ten-spot.

East won it with the queen and returned a small trump, which the declarer won with the king. He cashed the ace of clubs and led a small club, which West ruffed with the nine-spot.

The two pairs who bid and made six hearts got a spade opening, which was won in dummy with the queen. The ten of clubs was led. East split the honors and declarer won the trick with the ace. Declarer now took three rounds of trump.

He went over to dummy with the ace of diamonds and cashed the ace-king of spades, discarding a club and a diamond. Declarer then led a small club, which East won with the king and declarer's jack of clubs was good for the needed 12th trick.

Some of the experts, in discussing the hand, agreed that with a trump lead declarer should take three rounds of trump, then play the ace and king of diamonds and lead a small diamond to the jack. West, in this case, has to win the trick with the queen.

However, if West plays a low diamond the jack must be played from dummy. If East wins with the queen, the fourth diamond will be good for a valuable discard of a club.

Now the next time you play a slam contract just remember that even the best of players slips up.

To Play Here

The King's Men, trumpet trio from Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass., will furnish the music for the week-end services of the 13th anniversary of the First Church of the Nazarene, corner of Elmendorf street and Wiltwyck avenue.

The King's Men toured the east states for two summers giving outstanding concerts in churches and schools. The members of the trio are Walter Graeflin, of Cincinnati, O., Clair Ulmstead and Robert Wanner both from Royersford, Pa.

The Rev. William Summer-Scalles, pastor of the Grace Church of the Nazarene in Toronto, will be the special speaker during the anniversary services, which close Sunday evening February 12.

These services are being sponsored by the young people of the church. All are invited to attend the services each evening at 7:45.

Germans Can't Fathom Allies 'Fear' of Soviet

Berlin, Feb. 10 (AP)—The patience of the German truck driver who carries a cargo through the Russian zone is wearing thin. Here on the outskirts of Berlin gather nightly dozens of burly men who have stolidly waited their turn to get through the Soviet checkpoint at Helmstedt 100 miles to the west.

Unshaven and tired, they wheel their giant trucks into an "auto-hof," order a drink and then gripe about what happened from the time they left western Germany.

Six foot two Hans Duesseldorf is typical and what he says about the Soviet heckling on the border is mostly unprintable. But Hans says also:

"I don't understand these allies. There are three of them and they let Ivan play cat and mouse with them. They must be afraid to take a chance."

Hans says he is sick and tired of Russians keeping him waiting at Helmstedt for as much as 30 hours at a stretch. But he is almost as sick and tired of the western allies for allowing it.

"What I don't get is this: 'We Germans aren't afraid of them, why are you?'"

These drivers bring about 225 trucks daily to Berlin, each with about ten tons of food and other supplies. Since the Soviets started delaying tactics the flow has been cut considerably.

While the high foreign office and army officials ponder the Soviet conduct, the driver freezes, loses money and time, goes without shaving and winds up getting the dickens from the little woman.

with five tons of fish for Berlin. For this he is paid 80 marks a week regular salary (about $15) and six marks daily expenses. At the Helmstedt checkpoint he had to wait in a lineup for 35 hours with the temperature below zero.

"Everything was okay on my papers," he said. "But one figure was written in pencil instead of being typed. I had to go to Lianover, get it fixed and come back. That took me ten hours. When I got to Berlin finally the fish was almost ruined. I was 52 hours on the road, one way."

Another driver said he had a ton of grain aboard and a Russian officer made him unload the whole works. When he got it off the truck, another shift of guards came on duty and told him that was silly. He lost ten hours and a lot of sweat reloading the grain.

A third driver took a cargo of

A Man Near Here Felt Like Swollen Balloon; Full of Stomach Gas

Recently a man living near here stated that he used to feel like a swollen balloon after every meal. He would bloat full of gas and spit up acidulous liquids for hours after eating. Was terribly constipated.

This man is one of hundreds in this vicinity who now praise INNER-AID. He states he was amazed at the results when he took this medicine. Now he eats what he wants without gas or bloating, and bowels are regular for the first time in years. He feels like a new man.

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID! Sold by all drug stores.

Well, just look how the SPECIAL shines now! Brightwork on the fenders and around all windows. A come plate—and inside, door armrests, a robe rail, an extra ash tray. See the SPECIAL in the luxe finish of your dealer's.

Here's where Thrift and Glamor meet

Recognize this sprightly traveler?

Yes, it's the Buick SPECIAL 6-passenger Sedan that has caught the public fancy not only on its sleek lines, but on its easily-reachable price.

But notice anything new on it?

That's right—gleaming trim and the name plate "SPECIAL" brightening up the fenders. Brightwork around the windshield and windows, too. And when you swing the door open you'll see still other touches of added luxury—side armrests, front and rear, a robe rail, an extra ash tray.

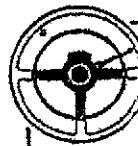

It's all still mighty thrifty, because this strapping straight-eight sells for less than many sixes.

Frugal in other ways too—gas mileage, for instance, is surprising so many people they are writing us in delight about it.

But here we've added extra glamor. Stepped up, at small step-up in price, the luxury look and surroundings of cars that would normally be much higher.

Why not drop in and see for yourself, both how these added touches dress up this SPECIAL and how close it is in price to cars of much less room, riding comfort, standing and performance.

Your dealer will be glad to see you—glad to show you how this traveler handles—glad to sign you up for prompt delivery.

DYNAFLO DRIVE? SURE, AT $40 LESS THAN BEFORE!

Dynaflo Drive is available as optional equipment on all 1950 Buick SPECIALS. The extra cost is now $40 less than originally, putting the sleek luxury of this super-smooth transmission within still easier reach.

MODENA NEWS

Modena, Feb. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Burke are the parents of a son, born Wednesday, Feb. 1, at the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Burke is the former Margaret Harcher of Modena.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Winters, instead of at the home of Mrs. Roy Jensen as previously planned. The all-day meeting provided ample time for the sewing session, when members made aprons to be sold at the annual church fair. Mrs. William Cole was welcomed as a new member in the society. Others present were Mrs. William Dwyer, Mrs. Floyd Wagon, Mrs. Lester Arnold, Mrs. Earl DeWitt, Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Edward Atchinson, Mrs. Joseph E. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Evelyn Adams, Mrs. Lillian Courter and the hostess Mrs. Winters. A box lunch was enjoyed at noon, and Mrs. Winters served coffee. On Thursday, Feb. 9, members of the society met at the Methodist parsonage to sew on the apron project again. The group also will meet Thursday, Feb. 23, at the home of Mrs. Lillian Courter to continue with the tug material sewing. All-day meetings are planned with box lunches at noon. The March meeting of the society also will be held at Mrs. Courter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Douglas and son, Robert, of Brooklyn, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. F. Deyo and family Sunday.

Russel and Harold Wagon, representing the Tilo Roofing and Siding Co., of Poughkeepsie, were in Ellenville, Friday.

Mrs. Emma Terwilliger of Clintondale was a recent caller at the home of Mrs. Grace Abdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zimmerman and Percy Crosswell of Kingston, visited Mrs. Albina Shultis, on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Crosswell, who had spent several days at the Shultis home, returned to Kingston, with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vincent spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Roy DuBois and daughter, Mary Lou.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wurts Taylor and son, Donald, of Albany, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crosswell of New York were in town last week and attended the funeral of their uncle, Myron L. Shultis.

Byron Patridge of the U. S. Navy, stationed in Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Patridge visited relatives in Poughkeepsie last week-end and called at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frost. Patridge is in the locality.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wagon were visitors in Newburgh Saturday.

Refreshment committee included Paul Sturges and Mr. Bogart. Members of the company and auxiliary are rehearsing for a minstrel to be given early in March. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the company will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, Feb. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Davenport and daughters, Martha and Beverly and nephew, William Davenport, spent last week-end in the Adirondack sports center.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Capwell of Fairview, N. Y. are visiting at the home of Mrs. Capwell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown.

A colonial cherry pie social will be held Tuesday, February 21, at the Stone Ridge Reformed Church starting at 7:30 p. m. A skit will be presented appropriate to Washington's Birthday. Refreshments will be available. The public is invited.

Testimonial for Harry L. Edson

Youngsters Keep a Man Young, Edson's Advice

Recommending that Kingston's aging citizens associate with the growing generation to keep young in mind and spirit, Harry L. Edson made this remark at his Rotary Club testimonial dinner Wednesday evening:

"I can't afford not saying hello and waving to every child I meet. Who knows? That same little fellow may be mayor of the city 25 years from now! And, I'll want consideration from him to keep my job."

Edson, whose theory is that life is "just as sweet as ever, even though a man may be in his 70's" was lauded by speakers for his work among the youngsters of Kingston, most of whom know him as Harry, and take their problems to him as they would to a big brother.

President Charles B. Back of Rotary, a local cigar manufacturer, bespoke the feeling of the 100 or so club members and guests gathered at the dinner in the Stuyvesant Hotel, when he said:

"We wish you health in the future, that you may carry on enabling our youngsters to be enriched in character by such a noble spirit."

Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, acting as toastmaster for the Rotary dinner, presented Edson with "paid orders" for complete renovation of his automobile "The Green Hornet," which has served him since his early days in the recreation department, dating back to 1928.

Specifications in the orders state that the "Hornet" must be painted green again, so as not to lose its identity as the Grand Old Man tours from one city park to the other.

Referring to his job in the recreation department, Edson advised that there is no greater satisfaction or joy for a man in his latter years than association with children. "It keeps you young in mind and spirit," he remarked. "And, there is great satisfaction in being able to reflect on the part one has had helping to shape the destinies of America through character building in youth."

A survey of expressions on the men gathered to honor Harry Edson, revealed that his recommendation registered.

True to the spirit of the occasion, Wednesday evening was the time for professional and business men to go back to their boyhood and they did just that by mingling with the little guests from the recreation department and favoring the youngsters with an extra plate of salad, more rolls and butter and those sweets to taper off the meal. Some of the little guys had three dishes of ice cream.

Numerous telegrams also were received from Rotarians in the various parts of the country expressing their congratulations and attesting to the high regard in which he is held by member Rotarians. Among the messages were those from Senator Arthur H. Wicks and from William Schryver, who is in Florida.

Chairman Ernest A. Steuding presided and following the invocation by the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seelye, he introduced the guests who were present to pay honor to the venerable civic worker.

The guests included Rotary District Governor Thomas F. McDermott of Nyack and Harry D. Matteson, secretary of the Poughkeepsie Rotary Club.

City officials present were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, President of the Common Council, Joseph Kelly; Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, and City Judge Raymond Mino.

The local service clubs' representatives present were Maynard Mize, president of Kiwanis Club; Theodore Leo, president of the Lions Club.

The clergy were represented by Herbert I. Bloom, rabbi, Temple Emanuel; the Rev. D. L. Haynes, pastor of St. Mark's M.E. Church; the Rev. John D. Simmons, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Church, and the Rev. Arthur E.

Quidemool, pastor of the First Dutch Reformed Church.

Other guests included Arthur G. Carr, charter member of Kingston Rotary Club; Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of New Paltz State Teachers College; Frederic Snyder, lecturer.

Following the tribute by the club president, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, presented Mr. Edson with a citation, which was written by Frederic Snyder.

Boys of the Recreation Department were guests at dinner of the service club members and Larry V. Bogart, chairman of entertainment, used the wealth of material at hand to stage a bang-up show. Vocal numbers, dancing and boxing bouts comprised the acts.

Freud Van Douson, local magician, introduced a number of new tricks to the delight of the guests and members.

Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. David L. Haynes.

The committee having the arrangements were Charles Back, honorary chairman; E. A. Steuding, chairman; L. V. Bogart, entertainment; F. J. Eisler, dinner; F. J. Ertel, tickets; J. J. Morgan, guests; F. A. Norman, club service.

The city of Boston, Mass., was permanently settled by Puritan leaders on June 17, 1630.

ALLIGERVILLE

Alligerville, Feb. 9 — The new desk which the Community Club of Kyserike and Alligerville purchased for the Alligerville school has arrived. Mrs. Myers, teacher at the school, has been using a desk which had been in use since the school was built in 1878.

The Alligerville-Kyserike Home Bureau has donated $10.50 to the polo fund.

Mr. and Mrs. John Conner were supper guests Sunday night of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harringer and daughter, Lesley of Tilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lapp and sons spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lapp and family.

Mrs. Lillian Myers was a supper guest of Mrs. Henrietta Davis last week.

Mrs. John Santovsky and daughter, Shirley, have returned home from the hospital.

A.B.C. and W.I.B.C. Dignataries Will Assist In Formal Opening of Ruzzo Bowlatorium

Bowling stars and personalities of national stature, plus a billiard star and Broadway entertainment will be featured in the formal opening of the palatial Ruzzo Bowlatorium on Monday, February 13.

The official ceremonies opening the 24-alley establishment is set for 8 p. m.

Representatives of the two national governing bodies of bowling—the American Bowling Congress of Milwaukee, Wis., and the Women's International Bowling Congress of Columbus, Ohio, will be in Kingston to pay tribute to the bowling establishment that has been described by an A.B.C. spokesman as "the most beautiful bowling alley in America."

Albert C. Latin of New York, past president of the American Bowling Congress, and one of the bowling promotion pioneers in the East, will be one of the principal speakers.

List of Notables

The lineup of other bowling officials who are expected to attend follows:

Frank B. Baker, assistant secretary of the American Bowling Congress.

Richard T. MacMaster, eastern representative of the A.B.C.

Bernard Sarno, Syracuse, president of the New York State Bowling Association.

George Obenauer, Buffalo, secretary of the N.Y.S.B.A.

James Wilson, New York treasurer of the American Bowling Congress.

George Woodward, New York, treasurer of the New York Bowling Association and executive director of the A.B.A.

Ray Hoyer, past president of the New York City Bowling Association.

William Landgraf, president of the New York Bowling Association and the Metropolitan Major League.

Mrs. Emma Phaler, secretary of the Women's International Bowling Congress of Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Iola Lasher, Albany, president of the New York State

Women's Bowling Association.

Mrs. Ruth Hunzinger, Utica, secretary of the N.Y.S.W.B.A.

Mrs. Ann Hoppel, Poughkeepsie, secretary of the N.Y.S.W.B.A.

Area Guests Included

Local guests include Evelyn Dolson, president, and Mrs. Reta Frederick, secretary of the Kingston Women's Bowling Association, host to the 1950 women's championship which opens at the Bowlatorium on March 17.

The Kingston Bowling Association will be represented by Charles J. Tiano, president; Ray Cord, secretary; Peter Karvanean, past president and delegate to the national convention; and Addison Jones, life member and a member of the executive committee of the New York State Bowling Association.

Invitations also have been sent to all presidents and secretaries of nearby bowling city associations, including Poughkeepsie, Middletown, Newburgh, Catskill.

Sports editors of the mid-Hudson region including George Palmateer, Poughkeepsie; Wesley "Bo" Gill, Newburgh; Ned Emerson and Eddie Lown, Middletown; and Dick McCarthy, of Station WKNY, also will be guests of the management.

Falcato Set

Three national names will be featured in the bowling exhibitions. The Buddy Lee Clothes squad of the Metropolitan Major League of New York and national left handed champions will meet an all-star array of local left-handers, including among others, Joe Dulin, Ken Baker, Lefty Hamilton, Alex Geriak, the golf professional, Mitzie Arlensky and Jackie Altamore.

Buddy Lee Clothes appeared here earlier in the season and made a sensational showing. They are leading the powerful Met Major League by five games and recently defeated the Cecil Ward Five of Detroit for the national southpaw title.

Joe Falcato, world's undefeated match game champion who has rolled 61 perfect scores of "300" will roll in a singles exhibition, with Johnny Ferraro his opponent in one of the games. Larry Jacobs of the Good Neighbor League also will appear against "Chesty Joe."

Catherine Fellmeth, of Chicago, former W.I.B.C. all-events champion, is scheduled to roll three games against local opposition. Probable opponents for the Chicago fireballer, who is ranked among the all-time women greats, will be Rose Schatzel, Evelyn Gross and Beverly Markle.

Mike Cestone, famous palm ball expert, will amuse the crowd with his bag of tricks.

The formal opening of the pocket billiard room will feature Art Judice, New York expert and former state champion, against Harold Quick, manager of the establishment. Quick is reported in great shape, having reeled off several runs of 50 in the last few weeks.

Cirillo Is M.C.

Al Cirillo, bowling's most famous master of ceremonies and star of the TV radio show every Sunday on the Dumont network, will emcee the formal opening of the luxurious Embassy Room and cocktail lounge.

Cirillo's sparkling routine will be aided by three Broadway acts, featuring Brands Hollis, lovely screen and television star currently being seen in NBC-TV productions.

Mim Hollis, who has appeared on such outstanding television programs as "Public Playhouse," "City at Midnight" and "Famous Jury Trials" will sing and entertain for first nighters in the lavish lounge.

Armand Hoppel, general manager of the Bowlatorium, announces that extra seating accommodations will be available for the huge crowd that is expected to jam the bowling palace. Bleachers will be erected in the main lobby.

The Bowlatorium management will be host to the state and national bowling dignitaries at a dinner at 5:30 p. m. on Monday.

3 Are Arrested

In Billy Rose Case

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Three men were under charges today in the $25,000 jewel robbery in the fashionable home of Broadway showman Billy Rose.

A 13-state police alarm was out for the arrest of two others.

Booked on charges of assault, robbery and burglary yesterday were Andrew Finnegan, 34, a longshoreman, and Alex "Red" Grenick, 33, of Astoria, Queens.

The third man, Michael Tancredi, 30, of Long Island City, Queens, was charged with serving as an intermediary between the holdup men and a "fence" who is believed to have bought the stolen jewels for between $3,000 to $5,000.

The pair still sought were identified as William Lalamio, 22, and Joseph Vitulano, 21.

Police said Lalamio capitalised on his acquaintance with Rose's butler to get the holdup men inside the Rose home last Jan. 28 where they tied up the butler, and carried off the loot.

Rose and his wife, former swim star Eleanor Holm, were at a theatre at the time.

The loss at first had been estimated at $100,000.

Has Hospital Plans

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Joseph P. Piccirillo, New York city, asked the V.A. to investigate the possibility of taking over Fort Siocum reservation in the New Rochelle, N. Y., area and converting it for use as a bureau psychiatric hospital. Speaking at an American Legion rehabilitation conference yesterday, he said the army has decided to abandon the reservation.

Featured Bowling Stars in Bowlatorium ShowUlster Grange Is To Burn Mortgage

A definite milestone in the life of Ulster Grange, 969, P. of H., at Ulster Park will be marked next Friday evening, February 17, when the ceremony of burning the mortgage on the Grange Hall will be observed.

Participating in the ceremony will be Henry M. Sherwood, state master, who will deliver the address of the evening.

The burning of the mortgage and the reception of the worthy state master will follow a dinner served at 6 p. m. in the hall for members of the Grange and their families.

It is estimated that American workers turn out goods worth an average of roughly $1.50 for each hour worked.

Walker's Bon-bons
Are at Embassy

Bon Walker and his Bon-bons, who furnish the music at The Embassy Restaurant, came from Bartke's famous establishment in Havana, where they have appeared for three successive seasons.

George Walsh, who plays the string bass, came out of the service with a distinguished entertainment record. In Brussels, Belgium, he supervised all U. S. O. shows.

He is a native of Framingham, Mass., where in that area he managed six movie and legitimate theatres. He also is a song-writer, having collaborated with Jimmy Dorsey. Currently he and Bon Walker wrote, "In the Land of Rip Van Winkle" for George Jessel's new picture, "Moon Over the Catskills."

Joseph Skrocki, who plays the guitar, was leader of his own novelty orchestra, "The Polka Dots." While in service he played in the company of musicians who were with Guy Lombardo, Major Bowes and other famous organizations. He also was with all-star Naval Quintet, playing U. S. O. shows. A composer, he comes from a musical family of note.

Bon Walker, leader, and a veteran in the business, plays the fiddle. He has sung over all major networks out of New York besides playing vaudeville, making records and writing songs. One of songs was introduced by Paul Whiteman and recorded for Victor. It also was produced from the Radio City stage, used in half-dozen movies and was the theme of an animated cartoon.

Calls It Violation

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)— Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman has asked the Supreme Court to end the practice in some states of providing "separate but equal" schooling for Negroes and whites. He said it violates the constitution and is an "undisguised species of racial discrimination." Perlman

Russell Urges Movie Projector For Every School

A movie projector and a three-speed record player for every one of Kingston's schools, and a city-wide library of educational films are the goals set by Warren Russell, chief of the audio-visual department of the public schools. Addressing the Parents Group of No. 6 School, Russell said that under the present system educational films used in the city schools have to be rented. A library from which teachers and students could draw would be a far superior arrangement, he said. Educational work during the war proved that visual aid made instruction 30 per cent more effective, he said.

The thriller will go before the audience Saturday at 8:30 p. m., Kingston High School.

Atharhacton Club Extolls Browning

"The Faith of Robert Browning" was the subject discussed by Mrs. William Kingman Wednesday at a meeting of the Atharhacton Club at her home on Highland avenue.

Mrs. Kingman told her fellow club members that Browning, like other men of great original genius, received very little popular acclaim for his poetry. His poems were too different from the type of poetry his own generation was accustomed to, Mrs. Kingman said.

But, since there was no existing demand for his poetry, Browning's genius set out to create that demand. His real fame began in 1864, Mrs. Kingman said, and has been increasing ever since. Describing Browning as "the prince of analytical poets," she said religion was the main theme of his life. She illustrated her talk with excerpts from "Saul," "Pippa Passes," and the familiar "Rabbi Ben Ezra."

Tea was served, the hostess assisted by Mrs. Charles Terwilliger. The history and characteristics of Woodstock occupied the address of Mrs. Paula Smith, of Wall street, at the previous meeting of the literary club, Jan. 25. She described the countryside as the Indians must have known it, and told of the struggles of the early settlers, the first of whom came in 1725, to clear the land and to fight free of the feudalistic landlords of that era.

She spoke of the influence of Ralph Whitehead and Hervey White in the development of Woodstock's character, and ended by contrasting the permanent beauty of the landscape with the transient character of its inhabitants. Miss Mary Noone assisted the hostess at tea.

Personal Notes

Joan Lacey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lacey, 48 Fairmont avenue, has returned to Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, after visiting her parents during the mid-year recess.

Robert M. Levintan, son of Chiropractor Robert Levintan and Mrs. Levintan of Eddyville, made the Dean's List for superior scholastic work during the first semester at Manhattan College. A freshman, he was graduated from Kingston High School in '49. Dr. Saul Ritchie, 23 Main street, has left for New York to attend the convention of the American Academy of Othopedic Surgeons at the Waldorf Astoria from Feb. 11 to 16.

Kingston Joins World Prayers For Fellowship

Millions of women in 90 countries will offer prayers today in more than 60 different languages as the World Day of Prayer follows the sun around the globe.

In Kingston, the Day of Prayer will be observed with a service in the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street at Temperance avenue, at 3 p. m. The women of all Protestant churches in this area have been invited through Mrs. Fred Stang, president of the World Friendship Study Circle of the church.

World Day of Prayer is sponsored by the United Council of Church Women, representing 10,000,000 women in the United States. It is interdenominational, interracial and international in scope.

Last year, the offerings from more than 10,000 local churches throughout the United States totaled $250,000, which was divided by the United Council between missionary work at home and abroad.

All churches, fraternal, youth, civic and social groups were urged to join in making World Day of Prayer a world-wide symbol of fellowship.

Moons on Mars

Mars has two moons, Deimos and Phobos. The latter is so near to the planet that it revolves completely around it in 7 hours, 39 minutes. This is less than one-third the time of the planet's rotation on its axis. Consequently, Phobos rises in the west and sets in the east.

90 Persons See Melodrama, Movies At Agudas Achim's 'Night of Nights'

An estimated 90 persons joined refreshments committee, reported that the evening's refreshments had been presented by Mrs. Casper Zeligman. Hostesses included Mrs. Henry Kusel, Mrs. Sam J. Herzog, Mrs. Isidore Chichelsky, Mrs. Nathan Katatsky, and Mrs. Bahl. During the evening, the group welcomed four new members: Mrs. Herman Lurie, Mrs. Ben Marcus, Mrs. Sam Feldman and Mrs. Joseph Gordon.

Said a spokesman for the affair: "It was an evening well never forget!"

The audience was enthusiastic over the welcome given them by Mrs. Hyman B. Reher, chairman of the "Night of Nights" program—extended in the form of an original monologue: "Hello, People." The melodrama, in verse, was entitled "Snatched from a Cruel Fate," and included in its cast: Mrs. Joseph Epstein, announcer; Mrs. Theodore Gallop, heroine; Miss Ida Epstein, villain; Mrs. Reher (who also was the director), president; Miss Gertrude Reher, chairman of the donor luncheon; Mrs. Harry Katzoff, hero; Mrs. George Matzolla, clergyman.

The chorus included: Mrs. Victor Alcon, Mrs. Jack Epstein, Mrs. Isidore Meyers, Mrs. Eli Safflas, and Mrs. Edwin Bahl. Mrs. Katzoff, chairman of the

REPLACING BROKEN DINHES

Since the holiday season I have received a number of letters similar to this one "What can be done about breakage in another's house? At a buffet supper in the house of people I don't know well my empty plate slipped out of my hand fell to the floor . . . and broke." The hostess insisted I forget about it but I would like to try and make some amends. Naturally, I can't remember the design or make of the plate. To replace it would be impossible, and any other design would be a mistake. But I wondered about sending a little gift with my apologies. Could it offend the hostess? What is usual under such circumstances?"

Abbreviating Words
Dear Mrs. Post: My sister insists that when writing notes and letters it is entirely proper to take a shortcut and write the symbol for the word and instead of writing it out I think it bad form to do this except on short memos or something of that sort. I'd like your opinion.

Answer: I agree with you.

Marking Family Chins

Dear Mrs. Post: Did I do wrong after 15 years of marriage, to have new china marked with my husband's three initials instead of mine? It is his house and there was no question in my mind that our china should continue to bear his initials. Now I understand from some friends that this is most irregular and their attitude leads me to believe they consider it in bad taste.

Answer: Although under usual circumstances the china is marked with the wife's initials, if everything in your house is marked with your husband's initials then having your new china marked to match the rest was quite all right.

An afternoon tea is an easy way to entertain Mrs. Post gives all the details in her leaflet E-27, "Afternoon Tea." Grange News

Stone Ridge

Twenty-nine members attended the regular meeting of the Stone Ridge Grange Monday night. The dance committee reported on the recent affair and said another will be held Feb. 10 with Ross K. Osterhout and his committee in charge. Refreshment committee for the meeting included Mr. and Mrs. John Baster, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilkane, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Easton and Mrs. Clarence Pines. The service and hospitality committee, with Mrs. William Pratt as chairman, voted to buy new window shades for the meeting room. The lecturer's hour, under the direction of Mrs. Cora Timmer, consisted of song, Battle Hymn of the Republic quotation and short reading of Lincoln in honor of his birthday on Feb. 12; and a talk by Robert J. Service covering Mr. and Mrs. Service's trip to the west coast last summer. The program also included two educational games on flowers and products of various countries.

Lake Katrine

Lake Katrine Grange held its regular semi-monthly meeting in the Grange hall Monday night with Worthington Mayron Boice, Jr., presiding. Eva Dedrick of Mt. Marion was reported still on the sick list and the members were requested to send her cards. It was decided to hold a fair at the Grange hall again this year and the master appointed the various chairmen of the monthly committee as a fair committee who will select a general chairman from this group. A meeting for this purpose will be called later. Lincoln's birthday was celebrated with an appropriate program during the lecturer's hour with appropriate readings and songs, the principal subject being "Lincoln's Three Big Acts for Farmers," also a number of quotations by him and stories about him. A small portion of the program was devoted to St. Valentine. Several valentines were read and the poem "Love Lights Labor." The game of broken hearts was enjoyed by all and the winners were presented with a prize which consisted of a rubber band to hold their broken hearts together. The program closed with the singing of "Love's Old Sweet Song."

The February meeting of the Women's Society for Christian Service of Trinity Church, Wurts street, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 2:30 p.m., at the parsonage, 45 Wurts street. It was announced today. Final plans will be made for the tea and food sale to be held Friday, Feb. 17, at the home of Miss Mary Hale, 13 Orchard street.

Union-Fern Adds Three Lines of Television

Union-Fern, Inc., 328 Wall street, announced today 'it has added three lines of television sets to its merchandise stock. Decision to handle the television sales was made in response to demand upon the store by its customers, according to Matthew Morgan, manager. He said the store will carry Philco, R.C.A. Victor and Admiral brands. Installation and service will be handled by a "qualified television man trained in the Philco school," Morgan said. One Philco set has been installed at the store and has been in operation this week. The set will be in operation tonight for inspection by "Kingston Days" shoppers uptown, Morgan said.

Nearly all of the outstanding talent of the city will appear during the doubleheader. Chez Emile's powerhouse will feature Ken Lowe and Lafayette Holstein at forwards; Big George Bloom, center; McGraw and Clark Mains, guards.

Ban on Pickets

Boston, Feb. 10 (AP)—A bill to ban picketing of courts or homes of jurors or court attaches has passed the Massachusetts Legislature. The bill was drawn by its sponsors said, after the Federal Court in New York was picketed by sympathizers during the trials last year of nine top Communists. The Massachusetts proposal would establish heavy fines or jail sentences for violations.

Haas and Palmer Share Lead in Texas Open

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP)—There was a tight three-stroke spread among 34 sharpshooters today as the $10,000 Texas Open golf tournament moved into its second 18-hole round.

Out front were Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., but they were only one stroke to the good over seven hot pursuers and just two strokes better than eleven more.

Haas and Palmer whipped the blustery Fort Sum Houston course with three-under par 68 performances yesterday to lead a field of 308 seeking the gold and glory in the twenty-third Texas Open.

They topped 20 par-busters. Fourteen more equalled regulation figures on two courses. Half the field played at Fort Sum Houston's 6,400-yard layout. The others were at Brackenridge Park's 6,400-yard stretch. Brackenridge, like Sam Houston, has a 71 par.

After today the low 60 and ties will be sent into the final 36 holes. The last two rounds are scheduled tomorrow and Sunday over Brackenridge course.

To Improve Buses

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Senate passed yesterday a bill which would provide improvements at three military bases in New York. The bill must be passed by the House and signed by the President, then followed by a bill for appropriation of the actual funds for construction. The projects include one for $350,000 to acquire land and buildings at Sands Point, L. I., for special services center.

Bowling

Bob Gorsline tapped the "lone 500" series in the Jacobson Mixed League with 502, via 153-178-173 last night in a bracket of games moved ahead of schedule. Irma Walour, a 109-average kegger, posted a 201 single and 420 triple. Other high scores included Vince DeCicco's 476, Jack Terpening 474 and Lou Navarra 453.

Evelyn Francis' 480 was the best score in the Matinee Club session at the Bowlatorium. She had high solo of 183. Evelyn Gross banged 477 in the runner-up spot and Eleanor Singer singled 205 and tripled 474. M. Dunn's 405 and B. McDonough's 452 rounded out the top bracket.

High triple honors in the Central Rec Women's circuit went to Ann Perry with 154-177-135-466. Helen Perry moved into the runner-up slot with 457 and Janet Hines reeled off 422. Other top scores were Thelma Garon's 406 and a 402 by Mary Grimaldi.

Jim Moss was high man with 523 as Jones Dairy Juniors racked up a 2063 triple to take third place in the IBM Polo Sweepstakes in Poughkeepsie. The young sharpshooters knocked off scores of 957, 951 and 1053. Chris Gallo posted 200-501; Joe Bosco 212-498; Charles Gildersleeve 494 and Charles Brooks 486.

Council of Churches Opposes Gambling

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—The New York State Council of Churches contends that legalized lotteries and off-track betting on horse races would be against "good public morals" and "sound economics."

In a communication sent to the Legislature yesterday, the council's legislative committee said it had noted "with deep concern the large number of bills" introduced this session, "which manifestly appear to open the gates to widespread increase of legalized gambling."

Cited were measures that would set up a state lottery, allow New York city to operate a lottery and permit off-track wagering.

Quoting from a document it said was in its files, the committee asserted: "What is true of the individual gambler—that he cannot win in the long run—is true also of the state. It is more likely than not that for every dollar of additional taxes derived from legal gambling, two dollars will have to be spent for law enforcement, welfare and relief."

Spaulding Denies Petition Accusing C.C.N.Y. Professor

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP)—The state education commissioner has thrown out a petition accusing Prof. William E. Knickerbocker of anti-Semitism at City College of New York.

The petition asked Commissioner Francis T. Spaulding to order the New York City Board of Education to charge Knickerbocker with conduct unbecoming a faculty member.

The five-year-old controversy between the C.C.N.Y. Student Council on the main campus, the American Jewish Congress and two C.C.N.Y. professors, Elliot H. Pollinger and Pedro Bach-Y-Rita.

They wanted Spaulding to overrule the board, which has cleared Knickerbocker twice and declined to act further.

The five-year-old controversy has prompted several sit-downs and walkouts by C.C.N.Y. students claiming Knickerbocker practiced discrimination.

Spaulding said yesterday in an opinion that he had found no basis "for disturbing the board's conclusion." He noted that a board committee had reported "evidence of conduct unbecoming members of the faculty" and had condemned it, but considered further action unnecessary.

"The record indicates that the board exercised its responsibility with a high degree of conscientiousness, thoroughness and impartiality," Spaulding said.

At the same time, he rejected the petitioners' request for action to return Pollinger and Bach-Y-Rita to a promotion list in the college's romance language department.

Knickerbocker is chairman of the department.

Spaulding said he had found nothing to show that the faculty or the board of education had been "arbitrary, unfair or capricious" regarding promotions.

He suggested, however, that the board might "find it desirable" to re-examine its bylaw governing promotions, with a view toward reducing the possibility of pressures for or against particular candidates. The bylaw stipulates that the department chairman may recommend promotions only after a majority affirmative vote of a departmental committee on personnel and budget.

UMW attorneys promptly began preparing an appeal.

Mr. Truman's fact-finding board, rushing to get a report to the White House, sat in on eight hours of bargaining between Lewis and the operators on Wednesday. Nothing came of that except information for the report.

But as the Keach decision was handed down late yesterday, there were reports of frantic new behind-the-scenes moves to bring the operators and Lewis together.

Protestant Students Join In 36-Hour Prayer Session

Wheaton, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP)—A spontaneous religious student revival which started Wednesday night at Little Wheaton College had developed into a marathon prayer meeting today.

Some 1,500 students and 110 faculty members at the non-sectarian fundamentalist Protestant school joined in the prayer service. They jammed the Pierce Memorial Chapel for more than 36 consecutive hours.

Some 500 remained during the early morning hours and there was no indication of an immediate breakup. No classes were held yesterday and there probably will be none today.

Nearly all of the students had stepped up to the pulpit at least once and confessed their sins and testified that the spirit of the Lord had cleansed their souls.

Many students returned for the second and third testimonies, some had waited as long as nine hours to walk to the pulpit to describe their little errors of life and ask forgiveness.

Gil Dodds, the famous miller who quit the track to preach the gospel, and teach track at the 97-year-old college, was reported away from the campus.

The non-stop prayer session started unexpectedly during one of the regular semi-annual week long evangelistic services at the college. The school offers a liberal arts course, including considerable Bible study and a master's degree in theology.

The Rev. Edwin S. Johnson, Seattle evangelist, was to have addressed the students. It was 28 hours later that he did address the students, before introducing him, Dr. V. Raymond Edman, president of the college, asked if there were any students whose testimony could not wait.

Ten students walked to the pulpit. After they finished, others crowded into the aisles and the marathon prayer session had started.

During the first night, all day yesterday, last night and early today, the young men and women students—many preparing for the ministry, missionary and evangelistic work—sat bowed in prayer. Every three or four hours all sang hymns. The march to the pulpit continued.

The students told of hurting a roommate's feelings, talking behind a professor's back, cheating in an examination or "being too proud." Each student spent about five minutes at the pulpit.

Students at the college in this community of 8,000, 35 miles west of Chicago agree on admission not to smoke, drink alcoholic liquors, dance, play cards, or engage in other "frivolous amusements."

Dean Roger J. Voskuil said of the meeting: "I think it is indicative of a heart hunger for a deeper life. While the human element is present here, I feel there must be a supernatural element, too."

Officers Elected By Upstate Loan

The annual organization meeting of the directors of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, held Thursday evening at 267 Wall street, resulted in the re-election of E. Frank Flanagan as president; Jay W. Rifenbary, vice president; Samuel D. Scudder, Jr., secretary-treasurer; Frederick Chidsey, assistant secretary-treasurer and H. Van Wyck Darrow, Jr., cashier.

Other members of the staff appointed by President Flanagan are as follows: Thomas Lebert, auditor; William R. Stall, head teller; H. Edward Carter and Carolyn J. Vogt, tellers; Mrs. Anastasia Berchin and Marilyn Meyer, stenographers.

Directors were elected at the annual meeting of shareholders several days ago when annual reports were submitted. During the past year the association has continued to grow and increased business has made it necessary for the association to make plans for an addition to the present banking house structure.

Oil Fire Damages Blind In Abel Street Home

Fire caused by excess oil in a stove damaged a venetian blind and part of the floor in a bedroom of the house of Charles Davide, 165 Abel street this morning.

Firemen were called at 4:55 a. m. to the two-story frame structure which houses the Davide family and two others.

Officers Joseph Fallon and George Bowers, who responded for the police, said that several children, ranging in age from four months to 13 years, evacuated the building until the fire was quenched.

Hundreds of Train

variously estimated at from one week to three weeks. Regional shortages are being reported daily.

Governor Paul A. Dwyer declared a coal emergency in Massachusetts and named a state board to supervise dwindling coal supplies.

The biggest sufferers are the railroads which have coal-burning equipment. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad says it's down to a five-day coal supply.

The B. & O. furloughed 625 shopmen today, bringing to 5,105 the total of the line's idle which it attributes to the coal shortage.

In New England, the Boston and Maine Railroad announced it is eliminating 162 passenger trains. That's bigger than any single slash in World War 2.

The railroad did not have to comply with the I.C.C.'s original order last month to cut service one-third because it had a 25-day coal supply. Now it has to reduce its service 50 per cent all at once.

The I.C.C. order this week directed coal-burning passenger service to be cut in half and that coal-burning freight service be slashed 25 per cent.

Number Is Lower
The only bright spot in the railroad picture is that the number of workers laid off now is lower than in past coal strikes. That's because railroads have been converting from steam locomotives to the diesel units as fast as the diesels are available.

Throughout the country some cities have resorted to rationing and there's prospect that discounts may be ordered. The Indiana Fuel Commission recommended such a procedure for that state but Governor Henry F. Schricker overruled the recommendation. He intimated a decision may be made within the next few days.

The governor, like the rest of the nation and the miners themselves, are waiting to see what happens in Washington. President Truman is expected to seek an injunction next week under the Taft-Hartley Act to try to get the miners back in the pits for an 80-day period. However, there's always the chance that the operators and the miners might get together on a strike-ending settlement.

President Says . . .

danger to the country of the administration's present drift toward socialism," he said.

Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.), another critic of the G.O.P. statement, said he thinks people will pay more attention to the Republican record in Congress than they will to any party declaration.

However, Senator Brewster of Maine, chairman of the G.O.P. Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he thinks that 80 per cent of the Republicans will support 80 per cent of the declaration. He added that is about as good as anyone can expect.

"I think the declaration marks a real advance in the development of Republican policy," the Maine senator said.

don't let cold weather slow down your building

You can speed winter building with our heated Ready-Mixed Concrete. Carefully selected materials are measured exactly. They're heated to suit the weather, then mixed and delivered in modern, airtight, truck mixers. You get completely workable, easy-to-handle high-strength concrete. Crews like it—production keeps rolling! There's no waste—no waiting! Try heated Ready-Mixed Concrete for that job.

Home Laundering Expert Gives Plan to Local Women At Workless Washday Clinic

BE SURE TO ATTEND
An event of particular interest to local homemakers will take place in a few days when the Workless Washday Clinic, conducted by a trained Home Laundry Consultant, is presented at our store. There will be two separate sessions each day to accommodate all who wish to attend.

NEW EQUIPMENT SHOWN
The Clinic, which has met with enthusiastic response at showings throughout the country, is carefully planned to familiarize housewives of this community with the work-saving, time-saving advantages offered by modern home laundry equipment.

A wide variety of garments, plus a typical load of household linens, will actually be washed during the sessions.

ALL URGED TO ATTEND
We are most anxious to have every homemaker in the community take advantage of the entertaining and instructive clinic, and suggest you plan to attend now and bring one or more friends with you. Admission, of course, is free.
